RE: DOCKET # 98N-1038

I am writing To express my concern over irradiated foods - primarily That all irradiated foods be prominently & clearly labeled as irradiated and That any foods containing irradiated ingredients be properly labeled. I want To emphasize That labels should use the Terms "irradiated" or "Treated with radiation" and that the radura symbol should be used. As a consumer and a parent I must continue To have the freedom of choice To purchase or To not purchase various food products and To be properly informed of these products contents & production & preservation methods. I believe That by not labeling food products That have been irradiated would constitute willfully dishonesty. I believe That using alternative Terms for irradiation such as "cold pasteurization" or "electronic pasteurization" are very misleading & should not be used.

C999

98N-1038 Once again - The absence of a clear label stating The food has been irradiated violates my rights as a consumer To purchase a product with full awareness - and irradiation destroys valuable vitamins, changes food's Taste & Texture & storage qualities.

If food must be irradiated - PLEASE - Then it MUST BE LABELED

= AS IRRADIATED!

Thank you, Rhonda Muskat
